PANIC ON THE SHANGHAI RICE

MARKET. SHANGHAL, Nov. 18. There is a general panie in the local rice market, which, if unabated, cannot fail to exercise a very depressing effect upon trade of all kinds. It arises from the extra op-High Extertioner, Kang-yi, to mandarina in levy the most oppressive taxes upon the populace in these provinces under cover of aiding the needs of the Peking Treasury by increasing the points of taxasentation several new stations for the collection of lekin upon rice have been established in the province of Kangsu, till now there are no less than four lekin stations between Shanghai and Wusieh, at each of which a levy of 50 cash per picul is made. As a consequence moreover, the time of the beats coming to Shanghai has been increased from three to six days, because of the delays entailed at each station by the officials collecting the lekin till at the presont time their are fully six hundred rice boats waiting to get through at the barrier of Chang-suh. The day before yesterday the rice merchants waited upon the Shanghai Taotai to beg him to take steps to have the new taxes remitted, but without effect, imposed by Imperial decree and he could not interfere. The price of rice before these now regulations was $5.60 per set of 150 catries, but owing to the extra lekin and the increased cost of transit by reason of the extra delays at the Customs stations, the ernment does not make the life of the lekin officers a more pleasant one. We thought that Sir Robert Hart and his wonderful ser-

THE DISMASTING OF THE NANAIMO.

SHANGHAI, Nov. 18. The lumber-laden British barque Nancimo, Capt. Roberts, arrived here on Thursday under jury-rig having lost her spars in a typhoon some five hundred miles southeast of Japan. The vessel, which has made a tedious and perilous voyage of a hundred and one days across the Pacific. left Chemainus, British Columbia, on the 7th of August for Tungku and until the 6th of October had most favourable weather. A couple of days previous to TERMS MODERATE. this latter date the barometer began berreau as on the battlefield; and of office to fall and the sea became turbulent indicating a disturbance in the vicinity. his cureer he has had experience both ample | Capt. Roberts at once shortened sail and and varied. Both in Scotland and at prepared for the approaching typhoon Aldershot, in the intervals of his campaigns. | On the 6th the wind freshened from the N.E. and worked easterly with increas-Nile-expedition he became the head of his ing force until he found it imperative to put her under hare pules. The vessel, being on the right-hand somi circle of the typhoon, was how to on the starboard tack. By midnight the wind was blowing with terrific force from the S. and a mountainous sea had risen which practically engulfed the barque; h wover, beyond the washing away of some of the deckload, and the flooding of the crew's quarters and the cabin aft, it did little damage. At 2 a.m., the wind, which was then S.S.W. with the barometer at 28.44, was at hurricane force, and with the violent urching the iron foremast carried away some five feet above the dock through this parting of the weather rigging, currying with it the jibboom and the main and mizzen topmasts. With the greatest difficulty were the officers, assisted by the crew, able to cut away the len rigging and free the vessel from the additional danger of towing wreckage. The foremast, fortunately, Aldershot, seeing that it is against military by its weight cleared itself, although in doing so it tore the bolts in the chain plates Chief himself to take the command of an clean out of the vessel's side causing thoreby a heavy leakage. That day the wind veered to the west and quickly fell to a calm with fine weather. The yessel, which now could not spread a single sail, tumbled torribly in the heavy rollers. The crew set to to get the water out of the hold which had risen to nine feet, but before doing this fully forty, thousand feet of dook lumber had to be jettisoned in order to get the leaks above water to be plugged -this occupied two days. The next thing was to get some canvas on the ship, so a stout log was chosen as a foremast, and by a tackle from the mainmast head and the heel of the log, which was well guyed, placed over the hollow iron stump the spar was slipped into place and quickly wedged and stayed. The main upper-topsail yard having been saved was requisitioned as a fore yard. The parrel of the main yard had carried away during the gale but chain lashings were got aloft and the yard steadied. To make matters worse the carpenter died of heart disease on the 9th when his services were most in demand and this added considerably to the labours of the officers. Throughout the operations the crow, which were composed of Malays and Manila men, worked well and in a few days the vessel was heading for the Locchoos under two jibs, foresuil and mainsail, and main and mizen staysails. When everything was properly secure the Captain turned his attention to extra canvas and a couple of royal yards were run up to the mastheads, and foreand aft canvas spread wherever a stay could be set up. On making the Loochoos, steering south of Kakeroma, a northerly course was set and utilising the Japan Stream fair progress was made although the vessel's speed ranged only from one to three and a-half knots. Lat. 32° N. being reached a westerly course was set, and, the wind still favouring, the vessel was able to anchor twelve miles north of Gutzlaff on the Taotal replying that the extra lekin was Wednesday, where she got a tog and was towed into port -N.-C.
